C1 Performance

“Rifles have become lighter overtime with the weight being distributed for a more balanced shooting experience with faster target to target transition and reacquisitions times. Proper stock fit is crucial for accuracy and recoil control. Key components include the stock weld, offset, parallel comb, length of pull, and recoil pad. These features ensure consistent cheek placement, eye alignment, and shoulder pocket contact.

Ambi Elite Precision meets performance. Comfort meets control. The Ambi Elite Tube Stock redefines what’s possible in stock mechanics—delivering unmatched adjustability, ergonomic excellence, and multi-platform versatility for shooters who demand the highest level of performance.

Crafted for tactical professionals, sport shooters, and precision enthusiasts alike, this attachment-only stock system sets a new benchmark in adaptability and shooter comfort. Whether you’re upgrading your AR platform or enhancing a specialized build, the Ambi Elite Tube Stock ensures every shot is supported by stability, precision, and control.”
